Preview 2007: Worth another look...

If you haven't taken time to visit some of the 132 products from 30 vendors participating in this year's program, you are running out of time. Even if you have, there are some updates that make Preview 2007 worth another visit.

- Core Collection Plus - In addition to the regular pricing from the 30 vendors, three companies are part of INFOhio's statewide cooperative purchase program for selected products. Depending on the number of students being licensed, Grolier (Scholastic), ProQuest and Thomson Gale Core Collection Plus prices may save your district even more money. Check the most recent Price List for details.
- Recent additions to Online Price List 2007 - Check the newest version of the Price List for two recent additions, Britannica's Global Reference Center and Rand McNally's Classroom. (Because of its later entry to the preview, Rand McNally's preview will extend through March 31.) An entry for Turnitin, with special pricing through the Management Council of the Ohio Education Computer Network, has been added to the Price List. Another reason to check the most recent version: A few vendors have revised their prices, and not always higher.
- Evaluation - When you and your students and colleagues have concluded this year's preview experience, don't forget to complete the online evaluation form that collects information about the value of Preview 2007. The form is linked from the bottom of each vendor on the INFOhio site and from the Preview 2007 Summary Page; responses will be accepted through April 16, 2007.

New resources to support Content Standards

Take a look at two presentations (slides with audio narration) created for INFOhio by Gayle Geitgey, Looking at Standards-Based Education Through the INFOhio Lens. Together, the segments run about 38 minutes and are linked from INFOhio and Ohio's Academic Content Standards in the INFOhio Resources section.
